ABSTRACT

This compilation forms Part II of the guide according to the plan conceived by a working party of the Section of Archivists of International Organisations of the International Council on Archives in 1974-1975. The directory provides access to national and other archive and manuscript repositories that maintain the archives of international organizations and former governmental and organizational officials. Information was gathered through three channels: a circular letter accompanied by a questionnaire addressed to institutions meeting certain criteria and inviting their participation in the project; a request contained in the circular letter seeking cooperation of these individuals in making the project known to other repositories within the recipient's country known or believed to hold relevant materials; and by direct approach to repositories known, understood, or believed to hold relevant materials as discovered from a wide range of pinted sources. An international organization is defined as an organization established under international aegis for the administration or execution of policies at governmental level or an international non-governmental organization for the regulation of economic, social, political, or cultural relations between nations. Listed in alphabetical order by country, the entry for the national archives is followed by other repositories either in alphabetical order or in alphabetical order of location by state/city/town. Introductory material explains data gathering procedures and coverage of the volume. This volume covers archives and repositories in the following countries: Finland, France, Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany), the Netherlands, Poland, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, and the United States. An outline of the information required for entries in this guide and an index which includes personal names, organizations, and subjects conclude the directory. (THC)

INTRODUCTION

This compilation forms part II of the Guide to the Archives of International Organisations according to the plan conceived by the Section of Archivists of International Organisations of the International Council on Archives. The plan was the outcome of the deliberations of a Working Party of the Section in 1974-1975. The resultant study arising from these meetings, issued as Unesco document COM.75/WS/28, sets out the framework for the compilation of the guide.

This part deals with the archives of international organizations and of their former officials to be found in national and other archive and manuscript repositories. The work has been carried out under a contract between the International Council on Archives and Unesco for its preparation.

The information presented has been gathered together through three channels:-

a) a circular letter accompanied by a questionnaire addressed to all Category A members of the International Council on Archives inviting their co-operation in the project. The questionnaire is reproduced as Annex A to this part;

b) a request contained in the circular letter above mentioned seeking the co-operation of Category A members in making the project known to other repositories within the recipient's country known or believed to hold relevant material; and

c) by direct approach to repositories known, understood or believed to hold relevant material as discovered from a wide range of relevant printed sources.

That the positive response rate has been low is self-evident although a considerable number of repositories, recipients of the circular directly and indirectly through the good offices of Category A members, sent in nil returns. In a considerable number of instances, more than one approach was made through channel (c) (sometimes as many as three) to repositories which the compiler felt might be able to contribute to the project. Again, the response rate was low and generally negative. Since this part could only be brought together by correspondence, the compiler must express his warmest thanks to those of his colleagues who were able to respond positively, to supply relevant information and respond to subsequent letters asking for clarification, expansion or supplementary data.

Coverage of the volume

In the context of this Guide, the term "international organization" has been construed to mean an organization established under international aegis for the administration or execution of policies at governmental level or an international non-governmental organization (as understood in the United Nations meaning of the term) for the regulation of economic, social, political or cultural relations between nations. In both cases, such organizations as are included in this volume are those established on a permanent or reasonably long-term basis with a permanent headquarters and salaried staff.

Excluded have been international conferences and peace negotiations and, in general, the starting date for inclusion of material has been the aftermath of World War I. Excluded also have been international organizations established for the conduct of hostilities during the two World Wars of this present century.

Occasional exceptions may be found to these criteria but it is anticipated that users will appreciate and understand why they have been made.

Form of entry

The contents of this part have been organised firstly in English alphabetical order of countries. Within each country, as applicable, the entry for the national archives, using its title in the national language, is placed first followed by other repositories either in alphabetical order using national language title again if in the same city or in alphabetical order of location by state/city/town thereafter.

As far as possible and necessary within the entry for each repository, one of two arrangements of sub-entries is followed dependent on the internal method of referencing and citation used in individual cases. Firstly, sub-entries are ordered generally in accordance with a group/series numerical order or secondly in an English alphabetical order of the surname and/or institutional name of the originator of the archives or papers described. Where possible, series/unit titles are followed by an indication expressed in linear feet/metres or number of items in any sub-entry according to national convention. The variety of material reported and the varying conventions of expressing certain data have meant that absolute standardisation, were it even desirable, has not been possible within sub-entries. Equally, the descriptive element of sub-entries has been entirely dependent upon the information supplied by respondents, supplemented as need be by subsequent correspondence. In this respect, whether a series or group of papers has been fully listed is of prime significance.

In so far as basic introductory data to the entry for any repository are concerned, the compiler has in large measure been dependent upon what has been supplied to him supplemented, in cases of doubt, by either correspondence or resort to publicly available published information. For example, few, if any, replies specifically answered the question as to what reprographic facilities were available. As a result this information is not given since the assumption of respondent and user in this day and age is that every repository has or has access to photocopying facilities and most, if not all, are similarly able to supply conventional photographs and microforms from within their own or immediately accessible facilities.

In the line for opening hours, the data given is as supplied and clearly takes no account generally of closures for national and public holidays, which are so various as almost to defy identification. Users should, therefore, bear in mind this factor in arranging any visits to repositories. Some very few respondents specified annual closures of up to two weeks for stocktaking purposes. Where this information is known, it has been given but again, users should be aware that this is a possible complication.

Sub-entries are generally descriptive of the contents of series/units, as would be expected in a guide to archives and manuscripts. Exceptionally and for what seemed to the compiler compelling reasons, this practice has not been universally adhered to and more detailed entries have been constructed. The prime example of this exception to rules is the reproduction under SWEDEN: KUNGLIGA BIBLIOTEKET, by permission, of the very detailed inventory of the private papers of Dag Hammarskjold.

Conclusion

Whilst a more substantial listing might have been wished for, this present one doubtless reflects two factors. Firstly, the archives of few international organizations and their former officials are yet publicly available in archive and manuscript repositories and of those that are, in many instances, full inventories remain to be completed. Secondly, to a lesser degree, it may reflect a very relevant factor in the archive and manuscript world of the 1980s - the growing inability (not unwillingness) due to the lack of human resources to supply answers to detailed questionnaires, however well intentioned, on selected aspects of their holdings.

Reparations Commission, 1919-1929 (AJ6)
4232 items; 33 boxes of card indexes

Established under the Treaty of Versailles with Germany and the Treaty of Trianon with Austria, this Inter-Allied Commission was charged with assessing the damage done to Allied property by the Central Powers during World War I and with making provision for reparation therefor.

The Commission proper came into being and began its work in 1920 after the preparatory work, July 1919 - January 1920 of a Committee for the Organisation of the Reparations Commission. The Commission ceased to function with effect from 30 August, 1929.

Apart from files relating to unsettled and continuing business, which were transferred in 1929 to the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, the bulk of the surviving archives of the Commission and Preparatory Committee were transferred in 1930 to the French National Archives.

The series includes minutes, proceedings and papers issued in connection with the business of each meeting of the Preparatory Committee, the Commission, its sub-commissions and the various councils and committees established to carry out its functions (e.g. Supreme Economic Council, Committee of Experts, Committee on Guarantees, Committee on Transfers) and the various executive organs charged with the actual business of arranging for the payment of reparations in cash, materials, supplies, etc. The detailed case files and accounting records of these executive bodies bulk large in this series.

[Series AJ5, papers of the French delegation to the Commission, complements this series]

Reparations Payments Office, 1924-1929 (AJ8)
1053 items

The papers of this office (known as the "Gilbert Parker Papers" after the name of its executive directing officer) concern the detailed handling of reparations payments arranged and authorised by the Reparations Commission. They also concern the work of the Committee on Transfers (of supplies, materials, etc. as elements in the reparations process) until the work of the Committee was effectively merged with that of this office, which ceased to function when the Commission itself ceased.

International Committee on the Restoration of Supplies, 1920-1921 (AJ21)
35 items

This Committee dealt with restoration of supplies to Austria and other central European countries of essential foodstuffs and other raw materials.

Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission, 1919-1930 (AJ9)
2888 items

The archives of this Commission and its immediate predecessor, the Inter-Allied Commission for the Rhineland Territories (which functioned 1918-1919 under the Allied Supreme Economic Council during the period of the Armistice) were transferred to the custody of the French National Archives on the cessation of function of the Commission in 1930. It acted as the supreme Allied administrative authority within the Rhineland.

Additionally under this series reference are the papers of Paul Tirard (3625 items), who presided over both Commissions with the title of Controller-General of the Rhineland Territory.

The series comprises minutes and meeting papers of the Commission and its subordinate bodies, memoranda, reports, correspondence and financial papers.

Plebiscite Commissions, 1920 (AJ11)
102 items

These Commissions were established under the Treaty of Versailles to hold plebiscites to decide the future sovereignty of the areas of Schleswig, Klagenfurt and Allenstein. The archives consist almost entirely of registers of persons entitled to vote in each plebiscite.

[Other fuller archives of the Commissions for the plebiscites in Schleswig and Klagenfurt will be found under UNITED KINGDOM: PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE classes F.O.852 and F.O.895 respectively.]

Mixed Arbitral Tribunals, 1919-1937 (AJ22)
171 items

This series comprises the surviving records of mixed arbitral tribunals - Romanian-Hungarian, Hungarian-Yugoslavian, Hungarian-Czechoslovakian, Romanian-Austrian, German-Yugoslavian, Franco-German - established under various peace treaties which formally ended the hostilities of World War I. Their function was the settlement of disputes from the requisition or sequestration of "former enemy" property under the provisions of these treaties. The bulk of the series relates to the first named tribunal.

Agricultural Fund,1930-1949 (AJ23)
55 items

This Fund was established in 1930, with a Secretariat based in Basle, to negotiate additional compensation for owners of large estates in Romanian Transylvania, affected by the post-war agrarian reforms in the territory, who had opted for Hungarian citizenship and disputed the awards made to them by the Mixed Romanian-Hungarian Arbitral Tribunal (see under AJ22 above).

Inter-Allied Reparation Agency, 1945-1949 (AJ34)
185 metres

This Agency, on which 19 Allied nations were represented, was established in December, 1945 as a result of the final agreement of the Inter-Allied Conference on Reparations held in Paris, 9 Nov.-21 Dec., 1945. Its task was to distribute amongst its 19 members, in accordance with quotas agreed at the Conference, reparations in kind for damage sustained by their property and territories as a result of the hostilities of World War II. It also had the task of dividing up, on a pro rata basis to their losses, such precious metals as were found in German hands.

The Allied Controls Council in Berlin was to identify equipment and supplies available for allocation as reparations. The Agency, with its headquarters in Brussels, began work in January, 1946 and continued to function until November, 1959.

By agreement of the General Assembly of the Agency, reached at an early date, records which had passed out of active use were transferred at various dates between 1951 and 1965 to the French National Archives.

International Refugee Organisation (AJ43)
175 metres

By resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations of 15 December, 1946, conscious of the considerable problem posed by refugees not only in Europe as a result of World War II but worldwide, the establishment with effect from 1 July, 1947 of the International Refugee Organisation was sanctioned. A Preparatory Commission, under the chairmanship of Henri Pousot of France, was set up to take the necessary first steps towards the organisation and operation of the Organisation. On 20 August, 1948 the Organisation commenced operation from its headquarters in Geneva, 15 members of the United Nations having signified their agreement to the resolution of 1946.

Its functions were to afford legal, political and material assistance to refugees throughout the world, to assist them to return to a more normal way of life and to repatriate them providing transport as required, either to their homeland or to such country as would afford them asylum. It provided clothing, medical assistance, retraining and help in resettlement. Its activities were overseen by a General Council, meeting annually with an Executive Committee, Director-General and, at its peak, some 5700 staff to carry out its task on a day to day basis.

The Organisation's original mandate for action was to end on 30 June, 1950 but was subsequently extended to 20 March, 1951 and effectively continued until 1 March, 1952. From the latter date until 30 September, 1953, its affairs were wound-up under the oversight of a Liquidation Committee, whose chief adviser was Henri Ponsot.

To replace the Organisation, the United Nations established, with effect from 1 January 1951, a High Commission for Refugees. On the Organisation's own initiative, a Provisional Intergovernmental Organisation for the Movement of Migrants from Europe was created on 26 November, 1951 to continue the Organisation's work until its final closure.

The International Refugee Organisation was heir to the functions and tasks of predecessor League of Nations, intergovernmental and United Nations bodies dating back to 1921, which had dealt with the increasingly complex problem of refugees, arising from World War I and political upheavals particularly in Germany and Austria in the period before 1939. This is reflected to some degree in the existence of materials emanating from the League of Nations High Commission for Refugees (1939-1946) and the Intergovernmental Committee for Refugees, 1938-1949 (the Evian Committee so-called after its establishment after a conference at Evian in 1938).

By agreement between the National Archives of France and the Liquidation Committee of the International Refugee Organisation dated 10 June, 1953, the surviving documentation of the Organisation was transferred to the custody of the National Archives between that date and 1955.

What was handed over represents but a very small portion of the archives of the Organisation. A considerable proportion of what survived in 1952 was destroyed - individual refugees' files, files of the Appeals Council relating to individuals seeking a review of refusal of the Organisation to help them, medical files, accounts, bills, vouchers and correspondence on financial matters. Staff files of IRO employees were either remitted to their new employing organisation or are preserved amongst the archives of the United Nations High Commission for Refugees in Geneva, where they remain closed. Much of the general documentation - working files and current papers - were also transferred to the High Commission. Yet others, at special request, were transferred to the Committee on Migrations. Included in these transfers were the files on individual refugees and their medical files if disposition of their cases was still under consideration.

With the exception of the items now referenced as AJ43/567-1094, the present arrangement is one imposed in the National Archives in an effort to make the material usable and understandable. AJ45/567-1094 consist of files of materials selected by a historical section under the direction of Michael Hacking as the basis for an official history. They represent a total artificial grouping and their arrangement as received has been retained. This history was never compiled.

The entry below summarises the contents of the surviving documentation (Series AJ43). A detailed inventory of 477 pages with an introduction of 39 pages detailing the background history of IRO and recapitulating the work of arrangement carried out in Paris is available and should be consulted for fuller information than can be given here.

Hans Wehberg (1885-1962) (NL 199)
1 metre

Amongst the papers of this political figure is a small amount of correspondence arising from his connection with the International Union of Peace Societies (dissolved 1959) and the International Peace Bureau (established 1892). The latter was established to serve as secretariat to the Universal Peace Congress and the Union of Peace Societies. Includes correspondence with Ludwig Quidde and Walter Schucking (see succeeding entries).

Ludwig Quidde (1858-1941) (NL 212)
3.5 metres

The papers of this historian and political figure contain correspondence relating to his involvement with the International Peace Bureau and its Inter-Parliamentary Union as well as to the treatment of persons exiled for pacifist views.

Quidde was Chairman (1914-1929) of the Deutsches Friedengesellschaft and (1920-1929) of the Deutsches Friedenskartell. The Fonds Quidde in the League of Nations Archives, Geneva contains records, 1919-1928 (10 boxes) of the Deutsches Friedenskartell. Part of Quidde's library is in the United Nations Library, Geneva.

Walter Schucking (1875-1935) (NL 51)
1.25 metres

Included in these papers is correspondence with Hans Wehberg and Ludwig Quidde (see above) relating particularly to their activities in connection with the League of Nations, peace societies and associations and to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, 1918-1935.

Otto Junghann (b. 1873)
3 metres

From 1924 onwards, Junghann was closely involved with German participation in the work of the League of Nations and served for many years until 1939 as Chairman of the German Commission for the League. After World War II, he served in a similar capacity for the German United Nations Association. His correspondence from 1925-1955, now in the Bundesarchiv, arranged chronologically and by subject, reflects these two interests especially.

Wolfgang Jaenicke
1 metre

Consultant to the Kuomintang Government of China under Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek on behalf of the League of Nations, 1933-1935. Jaenicke's correspondence during his tour of duty in China deals with his official relations with central and provincial administrations and also contains much correspondence with his family in Germany.

International Labour Office: Warsaw Liaison Office

2.4 metres

This Liaison Office was established in July 1922 and continued to function until the outbreak of World War II in September, 1939. It was reopened after the end of World War II and closed in 1950. Its functions were then taken over by the Polish Ministry of Labour and Social Assistance. The office was directed from 1922 to 1939 by Dr Adam Rose and Ms Maria Sokalowa and from 1945 to 1950 by Mr Jan Rosner.

The records consist of correspondence, 1922-1939, dealing inter alia with:- the work of the International Labour Office in general, the situation of workers in Poland, professional trade unions and associations, emigration. Weekly reports of the office cover the status of social and economic life in Poland, the attitude of government and press towards the I.L.O. Press releases of the I.L.O. for the period before 1939 deal with the general position of workers throughout the world, unemployment, the class struggle and the work of I.L.O.

The records for the period 1945-1950 consist of correspondence with the head office of I.L.O. in Geneva, with Polish government offices and other organisations with special reference to the organisation and activities of workers in Poland, to social, political and economic affairs. Monthly reports of the office to the head office of I.L.O., 1946-1948 are also amongst these records.

Access restrictions: access to the papers described below is only by permission in writing from Ambassador Per Lind and Ambassador Peder Hammarskjold, whose address may be obtained from the Royal Swedish Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Dag Hammarskjold (1905-1961)
30 metres

Dag (Hjalmar Agne Carl) Hammarskjold was born 29 July 1905 at Jonkoping, the youngest of the four sons of Hjalmar Hammarskjold, jurist and politician who was Prime Minister of Sweden for the greater part of World War I.

Educated at the Universities of Uppsala and Stockholm, Dag Hammarskjold entered the Swedish public service in 1930, serving from 1935 to 1953 in a variety of posts of increasing importance in the State Bank (Chairman, 1941-1948) and Ministry of Foreign Affairs, concerned principally with financial and economic questions on an international level. From 1947 to 1953 he served as a Swedish representative on various international organisations notably the Organisation for European Economic Cooperation (O.E.E.C.) being Vice-Chairman of its Executive Committee in 1948-1949 and the General Assembly of the United Nations, 1949, 1951-1953.

Upon the resignation of Trygve Lie as Secretary-General of the United Nations in 1953, Hammarskjold was appointed to succeed him. He died in an air crash at Ndola on 17 September, 1961.

Papers 1953-1961

By kind permission of the Department of Manuscripts, The Royal Library, Stockholm, the hitherto unpublished inventory of Hammarskjold's papers now in the Library is reproduced in full here. This inventory is in two parts, compiled in 1962 and 1964, giving the detailed background to the location and arrangements of the papers as they were kept in Hammarskjold's New York flat and are still kept in the Royal Library. The completeness of the listing and the complexity of them warranted this departure from the usual form of entry adopted in this Guide. Documents essential for continuing U.N. business found in his flat were removed to official custody after his death leaving these private papers behind.

Note of Dag Hammarskjold's private and personal papers from his office on the 38th floor at United Nations Headquarters, New York, N.Y., USA

This collection of private and personal papers are put together in five safes, SD-I, SD-II, SD-III, SD-IV and SD-V. Except for SD-V, the papers were kept in similar cabinets and safes on the 38th floor, i.e. one such cabinet in the closet in the Secretary-General's room, one small safe in the closet right behind his desk in his room, four such cabinets and one large safe in the secretary's room. The papers were transferred into SD-I etc. in the same order and sequence as they were found and nothing within the files has been changed. The numbering of the files did not exist, but was done to facilitate the purpose of the attached listing. In the case of SD-I, II, III and IV the listing is made by cabinet, from the top down, and for each drawer from the front to the back. In the case of SD-V, the listing is made from the top shelve down, and for each shelve from the left to the right.

There are cases of double files on the same subject. The reason for this method was that, if a certain subject came especially to the fore - and this also counts for the crises periods like Suez, Lebanon, Laos, etc. - and while it needed the Secretary-General's daily, and sometimes hourly attention, he kept one file on the subject on his desk in which he collected whatever he needed at the time, and one file was kept by the secretary as complete as possible. Whenever such a question became less poignant, all the papers were filed by the secretary. Therefore, these "double" files compensate and in certain periods overlap.

As the division between personal and private correspondence is very hard to make, this section of the papers (SD-I, 2nd, 3rd and 4th drawer) has been left as they were found without making such separation. It should be noted that the main part of the incoming private letters are in the collection from Dag Hammarskjold's home, 73 East 73rd Street, New York, and interlock with the outgoing correspondence (typed answers) which is to be found in SD-I as mentioned above.

A complete set of Dag Hammarskjold's speeches and a complete set of annual reports from 1953 on is available at the Royal Library.

August 1964

Note on Dag Hammarskjold's private and personal papers from New York, Stockholm, and other sources.
(Continuation of the listing compiled in 1962)

The attached listing (SD-VI, DH-1,2,3,4) cover the Dag Hammarskjold papers, except those already treated in a similar paper dated 1962, (SD-I,II,III, IV,V), to which the attached listing is a continuation.

Together the two sets of listings cover the complete collection of the Dag Hammarskjold papers as stored away in the cabinets SD-I to VI and DH-1 to 4. Generally speaking, these papers could be divided in: a) those brought from New York, and b) those from Stockholm, i.e. left behind in Stockholm by DH when he moved to New York in 1953 (mainly stored with Freys Express Company). These, (a) and (b), represent, up to date, the main part of the collection. Apart from them, there are other (see DH-2) the presence of which, in many cases, is the result of letters written by Bo Hammarskjold to Dag Hammarskjold's friends, acquaintances and colleagues (copies of these letters, as written up to date, are annexed). Besides, there is a part concerning DH, but which actually never was in his possession during his lifetime (see DH-4).

The cabinets marked SD-I to VI contain the main bulk of the papers brought from New York, of which the first five are treated in the listing of 1962.

SD-VI contains papers from DH's private apartment in New York, 75 East 73rd Street, (see also the note with which the listing of this cabinet begins).

DH-1 contains the main bulk of the papers from Stockholm. (see also the note with which the listing of this cabinet begins).

DH-2, see above, and the note with which the listing of this cabinet begins.

DH-3 contains photographs, printed matter, honorary degrees and citations, both from Stockholm and New York.

DH-4, see above, and the note with which the listing of this cabinet begins.

As already mentioned in the covering note to the listing made in 1962, and as can be seen from both listings, the contents of SD-VI heavily interlock with those of SD-I to V. As a matter of fact, the contents of all cabinets interlock in one way or another. The collection should, therefore, be regarded as an entity.

The papers in SD-VI and DH-1 to 4 are listed from the top shelve down, and from left to right. The cabinets do not have an equal number of shelves. The papers were placed in these cabinets by Landshovding Bo Hammarskjold, and, on the whole, the grouping together of the items correspond to the manner in which they were originally left. Wherever possible, the papers were, for listing purposes, put in boxes or covering envelopes.

Perhaps it should be mentioned that if ever these cabinets, including SD-V, are moved, they should be jolted as little as possible in order to avoid the items from moving away from their actual listing places.

In the attached listing some abbreviations of names and organisations are used:

DH	Dag Hammarskjold
Bo H.	Bo Hammarskjold (eldest brother of DH)
Ake H.	Ake Hammarskjold (brother of DH)
Sten H.	Sten Hammarskjold (brother of DH)
Agnes H.	Agnes Hammarskjold (their mother)
Hjalmar H.	Hjalmar Hammarskjold (their father)
Knut H.	Knut Hammarskjold (DH's nephew, eldest son of Ake, who went to Ndola after the crash to represent the family)
U.N.	United Nations
O.E.E.C.	Organisation for European Economic Cooperation
STF	Svenska Turistfureningen (Swedish Tourist Association)

SD-VI

August 1964

All papers in this cabinet are from New York, namely from the private apartment at 75 East 73rd Street (unless marked otherwise), which DH occupied during the whole period of his Secretary-Generalship. Among these papers there are some which date from the time before 1955; they were brought by DH to New York when he moved there from Stockholm.

Most of the letters were found in two army surplus steel boxes; the main part of these letters were in packages bound with ribbons, and some packages were marked by DH. For practical reasons Mr. Bo Hammarskjold transferred the contents of the steel boxes to this cabinet, and some are marked by him. Some letters and papers were found in DH bedroom. Very few papers and letters were found in the library-den.

William E Rappard (1883-1958)
20 metres

Dr. Rappard entered the service of the International Labour Office in 1909 and served as Secretary of its Basle Office, 1909-1910. From 1919-1920, he served as Secretary General of the League of Red Cross Societies and from 1925 to 1939 as a member of the permanent Mandate Commission of the League of Nations, having been Director of the Section, 1920-1925. He was a member of the Commission of Experts of the International Labour Office responsible for annual reports on labour laws from 1927 onwards, a member of the Swiss delegation to the League of Nations, 1928-1939 and Chairman, International Labour Conference, Geneva, 1951. He was Professor of Economic History and Public Finance, University of Geneva, 1913-1955 and Director of that University's Institute of International Studies, 1926-1955.

The surviving papers cover the period 1930-1958 and have not yet been listed. They do not contain materials relating to Rappard's service as Director, Mandates Section, League of Nations. There is, however, a considerable volume of correspondence, arranged alphabetically by correspondent, part of which refers to Rappard's relations with international organisations, especially the Mandates Commission, the pension fund of senior officials of the League of Nations and the International Labour Office.

CABINET OFFICE

International Committee for the Application of the Agreement regarding Non-Intervention in Spain, 1936-1939
89 files
[Class CAB 62]

In August, 1936, shortly after the outbreak of the Spanish Civil War, the French Government issued an appeal for a pledge of non-intervention in Spain; the British Government, in reply, strongly supported the general principles of such an arrangement. Other European countries agreed to participate, and a committee to administer the non-intervention scheme was established in London.

The first meeting of the International Committee for the Application of the Agreement regarding Non-Intervention in Spain was held on 9th September, 1936. The Secretariat of the Committee was provided by the United Kingdom; their office, at that time, was at 2 Whitehall Gardens, SW1.

The final meeting of the International Committee was held on 20th April, 1939. At this meeting it was agreed that the records of the Committee in the nature of files of correspondence, etc, should remain in the custody of, and the property of, His Majesty's Government.

This class consists of general and particular correspondence files of the Committee and its Secretariat, memoranda of various sub-committees (Secretary's Advisory, Technical Advisory, Chairman's).

Related papers will be found in class F.0.849 below and surviving papers of Mr. Francis Hemming as Secretary to the Committee are listed under Department of Western Manuscripts, Bodleian Library, Oxford, below.

Reparations Commission, 1919-1931 (F.O.801)
130 volumes

Established under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles and comprising representatives of all the Allied powers, the Commission's task was to assess the damage done to Allied property by Germany and its allies during World War I and to lay down by May 1921 the methods and timetable for the payment of reparations. The economic collapse of Germany by the end of 1923 led to the establishment of a permanent managing committee of experts, under the Commission's aegis, to consider the situation, stabilize the currency and balance the German budget. Its plan named after the Committee's chairman, General Charles C. Dawes (U.S.A.) was used as the Commission's best method of attempting to carry out its mission.

The class comprises much unpublishd material as follows:-

Minutes, correspondence and papers, 1919-1920 of the Committee on the Organisation of the Commission	3 vols
Minutes of proceedings of the Commission, 1920-1931	12 vols

They were placed in the Public Record Office in 1940 for safekeeping and the United Nations Organisation has since agreed to their permanent deposit here. The papers range from 1921 to 1937 but there are some gaps. Certain deficiencies in the series of printed subject and numerical lists (which provide a key to the papers) have been repaired by the insertion of typescript lists referring to the relevant periods; these lists (printed and typescript) fill two boxes (Nos. 345 and 346) under the reference IND. 29739 and 29740.

The Official Journal of the League of Nations, the indexes thereto, and supplementary publications (1920 to 1946) referred to in the latter part of the list (Nos. 347-765), were presented by the Library of the United Nations Organisation in Geneva in 1965. They contain reports of proceedings; minutes (including debates); resolutions; budgets, transcripts of treaties, mandates and conventions; summaries of correspondence, etc.

The 'C' and 'A' papers, together with the Journals, provide a comprehensive account of the business of the League, from its inception in 1920, until 1946 when its residual functions were handed over to the United Nations.

Journals	135 vols	1921-1940
Supplements to the Journals	194 vols	1920-1946
Indexes to Journals [Before this series, indexes to the Journals are to be found in the Supplements series above]	10 vols	1929-1939
Circulated Papers ('A')	32 vols	1921-1937
Circulated Papers ('A' Extra)	4 vols	1932-1937
Circulated Papers ('C')	308 vols	1921-1937

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY (Record Group 56)

Amongst the General Records of the Office of the Secretary to the Treasury are an unspecified number of records of Edward F Bartelt, US Representative to the Fiscal Commission of the United Nations Economic and Social Council, 1947-1954.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENCE: RECORDS OF INTERNATIONAL MILITARY AGENCIES (Record Group 333)

Records of the Headquarters, United Nations Command, 1950-1957
121 feet

The United Nations Command (UNC), with General Headquarters in Tokyo, was established on July 24, 1950. It was organised along the lines of an army field headquarters with general and special staff sections. The Command also included a Headquarters, UNC (Advance), which was established in July 1951 to assist negotiations for an armistice with the Communist forces of North Korea and China. On January 1, 1953, it was reorganised as a joint command. Late in 1953 two organisations were added: the UNC Military Armistice Commission and the Repatriation Group, both with staff sections. The UNC was transferred from Tokyo to Seoul on July 1, 1957.

Records consist of correspondence, 1951-55; daily summaries of unit strength assigned by countries of the United Nations, 1951; an orders file, 1951-54, of the Adjutant General Section; a United Nations-Japan administrative working file, 1952-53, of the J-1 Personnel Division; UNC Liaison Section general administrative and country file, 1950-55; correspondence, memorandums, and orders, January-June 1952, of the Civil Information and Education Section; and correspondence, publications, Korean armistice negotiation records, July 1951-July 1953, and Korean armistice agreement documents, July 1953, of the Headquarters, UNC (Advance).

Records of the United Nations Command Military Armistice Commission (UNCMAC) include records relating to the Korean armistice negotiation and implementation, June 1951-57; daily reports of arrival and departure of military personnel, combat aircraft, and other material, 1953-57; and reports, correspondence, and other records relating to service, supply, and liaison functions of the UNCMAC, 1953-57. Records of the UNC Repatriation Group consist of correspondence, journals, and publications, 1953-54.

WORLD WAR II CRIMES RECORDS (Record Group 238)

The Moscow Declaration, signed by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union on November 1, 1943, provided that major war criminals were to be punished in accordance with the joint decisions of the Allied Governments. On May 2, 1945, President Truman appointed Robert H Jackson, an Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, as the representative and Chief of Counsel for the United States in preparing and prosecuting cases against major Axis war criminals. An agreement signed by Justice Jackson and representatives of the French, British, and Soviet Governments on August 8, 1945, established the International Military Tribunal. On October 18, 1945, the chief counsels of the Allied Governments submitted to the tribunal an indictment charging 24 German nationals with conspiring to wage aggressive war, breaching international peace, violating rules of warfare, and committing wholesale crimes against humanity. From September 30 to October 1, 1946, the tribunal delivered judgments. Justice Jackson resigned October 7, 1946, as Chief of Counsel for the United States.

President Truman had provided in January 1946 that the Office of Military Government for Germany, United States, would handle remaining trials of Nazi war criminals. On October 18, 1946, Gen. Joseph T McNarney established U.S. military tribunals at Nuremberg, with supporting administrative units. Between 1946 and 1949 the tribunals heard 12 trials; under Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor the Office of the Chief of Counsel for War Crimes, which was formally inactivated June 20, 1949, handled the legal work.

In the Far East Gen. Douglas MacArthur, as Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers (SCAP), established on January 19, 1946, the International Military Tribunal for the Far East to try persons charged with war crimes. On February 15, 1946, MacArthur appointed nine members to the tribunal from nominations submitted by nations accepting the Japanese surrender, India, and the Commonwealth of the Philippines. Preparation of the Allied case was assigned to SCAP's International Prosecution Section (see RG 331) under Chief of Counsel Joseph B Keenan. The tribunal sat from April 29, 1946, until November 1948 when it delivered judgments and pronounced sentences.

130 feet

After study at the University of California Los Angeles and an academic career starting in 1928 at Howard University, Washington, D.C., Bunche joined the service of the US government in World War II as an African specialist in what was to become the Office of Strategic Services (OSS). In 1944 he transferred to the State Department to work on African and Colonial matters and as such was a member of his country's delegations to the founding meetings of the United Nations at Dumbarton Oaks and in San Francisco and London.

At the request of Trygve Lie, first Secretary-General of the UN, Bunche joined the organisation's Secretariat in 1947 as Principal Director of the Department of Trusteeship and Information from Non-Self Governing Territories, a post he held until early in 1955 and in which he played a cardinal role in the development of the UN trusteeship system. Parallel with his duties in this area, Bunche went with Count Folke Bernadotte to Palestine as secretary to the peace negotiating mission in 1947, succeeded Bernadotte when he was killed in September, 1948 and successfully concluded his negotiations in the following year. For this he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950.

In 1955, Dag Hammarskjold appointed Bunche an Under-Secretary of the organisation with the purpose of undertaking special political and other assignments. In this capacity, he was responsible for the organisation and operation of UN peace-keeping activities and forces in the Middle East, 1956-1960, in the Congo in 1960 and in Cyprus in 1964, as well as undertaking an Observation Mission to the Yemen in 1963.

His extensive papers have so far only been subjected to rough sorting and preliminary listing, hence the following description is in general terms and may require subsequent revision when a detailed listing is completed.

The papers are stored in some 153 boxes (with additionally 4 boxes of UN material to which access is at present restricted). Boxes numbered 91-103 contain the accessible material directly arising from Bunche's duties and functions but there will be much of relevance to his UN career to be found scattered throughout the whole.

The immediately relevant material is grouped under two principal heads: Boxes 91-98, Trusteeship Working Papers and Boxes 99-103, 'Special File' (Bunche's own description).

Trusteeship Working Papers

Box 91	'Trusteeship Council': papers relating to the work of the Council generally and specifically to its 1st to 10th Sessions; liaison with other UN Councils and departments, other outside organisation; trusteeship information publications; liaison within Council.
Boxes 92/93	'Trusteeship General': organisation of work of the Council, rules, procedures; terms of reference of missions; information on trust territories; studies on former Italian colonies in Africa; trusteeship, South-West Africa.
Box 94	'Miscellaneous Reports, Activities' including correspondence with various individuals on Council's work; reports on various conferences and missions; internal memoranda on staffing and personnel matters.
Boxes 95/96	'Council Sessions': papers relating to regular and special sessions 1-3, sessions 4-16 and to sessions 1-4 of Committee IV including reports on Jerusalem, New Guinea, Ruanda-Urundi, Western Samoa, South-West Africa; agendas, resolutions, procedural and background papers.
Boxes 97/98	'Committee IV': similar materials for sessions 5-11 of this Committee.

Special File

Box 99	'Miscellaneous Personalities': papers and correspondence relating to or from the following: Bang-Jensen, Folke Bernadotte, Dag Hammarskjold, John F Kennedy, Cecil Roberts, Mrs Eleanor Roosevelt, Adlai Stevenson, Walter White, Heinz Wischoff.
Box 100	'Miscellaneous Subjects': including various peace plans; information on Africa; conversations at Dumbarton Oaks, August-September, 1944; papers relating to various non-UN international or national conferences, 1945-1953; papers relating to San Francisco Conference, 1945.

Lubin, David (1849-1919)
2 feet, 2 volumes

Born in Cracow in 1849, Lubin emigrated whilst a child with his family to the United States of America. By 1884, he had become the successful owner of a department store and mail order house in California. His fortune made, he turned his interests to agriculture and fruit growing and soon learnt the vulnerabilities of the two activities to the vagaries of international trade. From these experiences grew his active promotion of an international commercial organisation to counteract the problems. Having in 1904 interested both the King of Italy and the Italian government in his project, an international conference leading to an international accord in its favour led to the establishment of the International Institute of Agriculture with its headquarters in Rome.

As United States delegate to the Institute, Lubin worked tirelessly for its aims, objectives and success until his untimely death from pneumonia in 1919.

The bulk of his surviving papers are available for consultation in the David Lubin Memorial Library of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organisation in Rome.

The papers reported here cover the period 1905-1941 and comprise correspondence, published writings of Lubin and others, newspaper clippings, photographs and official publications relating to the activities of the International Institute of Agriculture and world agricultural problems.

Sir (Arthur) David Kemp Owen (1904-1970)
39 boxes
12,750 items

David Owen, of Welsh origins and birth, was involved as a teacher in institutions of higher education and as secretary and director of a number of bodies devoted to economic, social and political planning in England and Scotland between 1926 and 1941. In 1941, he joined the British Civil Service, initially in a temporary wartime capacity and served as personal assistant to Sir Stafford Cripps as Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Aircraft Production, 1942-1943. In 1944, he was transferred to the Foreign Office and was in charge of League of Nations affairs. He was a member of the British delegation to the United Nations Preparatory Conference in San Francisco, 1945, and Deputy Executive Secretary, United Nations Preparatory Commission in London, 1945-1946.

He then entered the service of the United Nations, being for a short period in 1946 Executive Assistant to the Secretary General. From 1946-1951, he was Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations in charge of Economic Affairs and from 1951 to 1965, Executive Chairman of the United Nations Technical Assistance Board. From 1966 until his retirement in 1969, he was Co-Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme.

His papers, besides reflecting his pre-World War II activities in the United Kingdom, principally document his years of service as a high official of the United Nations. They consist of correspondence, catalogued and uncatalogued, diaries, topographically arranged files on United Nations technical assistance and development matters, papers relating to the early organisation of the United Nations, notes relating to private meetings with successive Secretaries-General, various miscellaneous printed and duplicated United Nations material. Copies and drafts of speeches, publications, photographs, scrapbooks and biographical material are also included.

Access restrictions: none except for four letters which remain closed until 2000 A.D.

Andrew Wellington Cordier (1901-1975)
346 boxes
c.202,500 items

Cordier's papers, like his life, fall into three broad areas; the first relates to his years on the academic staff of Manchester College, Indiana, 1927-1944; the second to his service in the United States Department of State and the United Nations, 1944-1962, and the third to his tenure of office as Dean of the School of International Affairs, Columbia University, New York, 1962-1972 and as President of the University, 1969-1970. This entry concentrates on the material relating to the middle period of Cordier's life though inevitably, certainly in the latter period, there is some overlap of relevance of material.

In 1944, Cordier entered the service of the United States Department of State as an expert in international security and was also involved in the drafting of the charter of the United Nations. He attended the Preparatory Conference of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945 as a technical expert on the United States delegation and subsequently served as chief of section of the United Nations Preparatory Commission in London and as adviser to the executive secretary of the Commission, 1945-1946.

In 1946, he entered the service of United Nations in New York and served with the rank of Under-Secretary as Executive Assistant to successive Secretaries-General until 1961 when, with the same rank, he was in charge of General Assembly and Related Affairs until his retirement in the following year. Throughout his service with the United Nations, he was principal adviser to successive Presidents of the General Assembly. He served as Special Representative of the Secretary-General in Korea, 1950-1952; in connection with the Mount Scopus affair, 1958 and in the Congo, 1960.

On his return to academic life at Columbia University, he retained close and valued working relationship with the organisation he served for so long. He was joint/sole editor of the eight volumes of the series of Public Papers of the Secretaries-General of the United Nations published between 1969 and 1977 by Columbia University Press (one volume devoted to Trygve Lie, four to Dag Hammarskjold and three to U Thant). His trusteeship of the Dag Hammarskjold Foundation was further evidence of relations maintained within his earlier sphere of activity.

With the kind permission of Columbia University, the detailed inventory of Cordier's papers for his period of UN service together with his continuing UN connection through editorship of the Public Papers of the Secretaries-General and his trusteeship of the Dag Hammarskjold Foundation is reproduced here. Omitted from this Guide is that section of the inventory (boxes 59-74) which contain notes for, texts of, or press reports on addresses, many but not all of which dealing with UN subjects delivered by Cordier during his UN service.

Access restrictions: Most of the items in Boxes 39-202 have been microfilmed by the United Nations. The UN has also placed restrictions on much of the material. The restrictions are of two types: 1) the UN's standard restriction on material less than twenty years old (files marked * on list) and 2) special restrictions on material which the Secretary General deems sensitive (marked  on list). These latter restrictions will be reviewed by the UN in 1982 for possible opening. Open files from otherwise restricted boxes will be found in unnumbered boxes at the end of the collection, in order of original box number. Similarly, restricted files from otherwise unrestricted boxes have been removed and placed at the end of the collection until they become open. (Boxes which are entirely restricted have been left in place in the collection and identified as closed.)
